This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor discoloration and small dark spots, possibly due to age or handling. The left edge of the page is bound, showing the stitching and the inner cover material. The overall tone is warm and slightly yellowed, characteristic of old paper.

A vertical line with a dark, textured left side and a white right side. The dark side has a grainy, almost fibrous appearance, while the white side is smooth. The line is oriented vertically.

You can learn telegraphy at New Hampton. _____ Many stars were represented at our anniversary. The Hamptonia easily ranks with the best college magazines. Our worthy Principal now has "standard time" furnished to him every day. Quite a number of former teachers in the school attended the anniversary exercises. The remark was frequently made during anniversary by former students, "How beautiful the trees are—how they have grown!" Mr. Merrill and wife are to return and have charge of the R. H. Club the coming year. They have given excellent satisfaction.	Of the large number of alumni present we know of not one undervaluing to be known as a lady or a gentleman. Mr. Swain and wife have left the Lodge and removed to the house in Meredith. Mrs. Basset, from Taunworth, is to have charge of the house next year. Applications for board may be made to the Principal. John F. Merrow, formerly a student in New Hampton Institution, is now proprietor of the River House, Boston, where old New Hampton students always receive special attention. The sermon before the Students' Christian Association, by Prof. Williams, was timely, appropriate, helpful, progressive, eloquent. It was highly appreciated by all who heard it. There is no aristocracy among the students at New Hampton. A student is not
MERCHANDISE EMPORIUM. The wholesale store, or Merchandise Emporium, is located near the bank, where merchandise is bought and sold at wholesale prices, and where the books are kept according to the most approved forms for jobbing business. Each pupil takes charge successively of the Invoice Book, Sales Book, Cash Book, Journal and Ledger, and may thus become thoroughly acquainted with the wholesale department. This department is regulated by the same principles, and the price of merchandise is regulated by a variable standard, which gives ample opportunity for the exercise of business talent. A. B. Meserve

As Prof. Meservy has been so long connected with the Institution, it is thought that his former pupils might be glad to see his face as it now appears after so many years of teaching. We have only an electrotype, but we trust that his friends will readily recognize the likeness. Those who recited to him twenty-five years ago will perceive that time and care and toil have made their impress. It will be perceived that the signature has not changed.

HOW THEY TURN OUT. Graduates of New Hampton Literary Institution have always been very successful as teachers, and graduates from the students have been connected with New Hampton Institution since it was founded. The aggregate by terms has been more than thirty-five thousand.

College have obtained remarkably good places as clerks and bookkeepers. Many New Hampton students are now accumulating wealth in various branches of business. Most of our students are compelled to rely upon themselves for the means of obtaining an education, and this enables them to compete with others when their education is completed.
